Stellar Joins Tin Explorers and Developers Group

Stellar Resources (ASX: SRZ) is pleased to announce that it has become a founding member of the International Tin Research Institute's (ITRI) Explorers and Developers Group. Stellar attended the initial meeting of the group on 25 June at the ITRI sponsored International Tin Seminar in Hangzhou.

Formation of the Explorers and Developers Group reflects ITRI's recognition that a new generation of tin producers is required by the industry in order to provide sustainable supply. Stellar is particularly pleased that its Heemskirk Tin Project is recognized by ITRI as one of the potential new suppliers of tin. Other ASX listed companies that have also joined the Group include Auzex Resources (ASX: AZX), Consolidated Tin Mines (ASX: CSD), Kasbah Resources (ASX: KAS), Venture Minerals (ASX: VMS) and YTC Resources (ASX: YTC). Frankfurt Exchange listed Deutsche Rohstoff is also a member of the group.

Membership of the Explorers and Developers Group will provide Stellar with an important source of market information and an opportunity to benchmark the Heemskirk Tin Project against other tin projects.

Stellar Resources CEO Peter Blight said "I am pleased that Stellar is a foundation member of the ITRI Explorers and Developers Group as it will greatly increase the profile of the company's flagship high grade Heemskirk Tin Project within the international tin community."

ITRI provided a positive long-term outlook for the global tin industry at the Hangzhou seminar and estimated that 80,000 tonnes of new annual supply would be required to meet demand growth over the next 5 years. ITRI showed that such a gap will be difficult to fill from the current suite of projects suggesting that the tin price will need to remain high for some time to attract new supply.
